Get to know the Amish where they live and work. See how they adapt their businesses to run without power from the grid. Hear unique stories from imaginative, friendly, hardworking people who have cultivated specific ethnic skills creating specialized products to serve the local Amish community. Go beyond the average tourist stops for a behind the scenes look at their amazing endeavors.

See an Amish buggy maker shop to learn how buggies are made with skills and tools passed from father to son. Peek inside an Amish coffin, empty of course to see the difference between a coffin and casket presented by LaVern in his lighthearted humorous way. Step inside an Amish one-room-schoolhouse and hear the teacher explain how she manages all eight grades at once. Step inside an Amish toymaker shop where an internet connection is not required to keep the kids entertained. Visit, pet and feed camels at an Old Order Amish farm where you'll meet an unusual dairy farmer who milks camels rather than cows. Tour an Amish harness-maker shop to learn how harnesses and horseshoes are vital equipment to the Amish local community.
